

“Remember”

By Nathan R. Petrie

On ocean vast think oft of land
The beauty crafted by God's hand
When rolling high on sea of blue
Remember homes built just for you

Though night has come remember day
The laughing morns of earthly play
Remember light in midst of dark
Even though deaf keep close the lark

When dawn arrives remember night
And hands that carried through the fight
Do not forget the pangs of hell
Lest you return to darkest cell

Deception rides not in the day
It waits for morning's swift decay
Hold fast to truths taught by the light
Let glory's brightness fill your sight

Do not fear Satan's masquerades
For even demons God has made
He's raised you up by Christ's red blood
Redeeming what He could not by flood

On that cross wrong was made right
Out of the grave turned red to white
Remember please such noble hands
That now bear scars as was the plan

There now is hope for all to share
There is no sin that we must bear
Remember now that noble plight
Remember what was seen in light